OBITUARY

MRS. J. H. LIVINGSTON.

One of the most worthy ladies in Portage county in the person of Mrs. J. H. Livingston of Almond, passed away on the 15th inst., after an illness of about three months.

The deceased lady was an early day school teacher in Stevens Point, having taught here several terms and will be remembered as Marie Hinkley. Mrs. Marie Hinkley Livingston was born in Rockville, Conn., Jan. 13, 1842. Her early childhood was spent in Troy, N. Y., and when six years of age she came west with her parents, who settled at Waupun. In the spring of 1856 the family moved to Pine Grove, where on March 4, 1868, she was married to John Harmon Livingston and they established their home on the farm where for 46 years they have worked together.

She leaves to mourn her loss her aged husband, three daughters and one son, also one sister, Mrs. Jane Wilson of Waupun, and two brothers, J. W. Hinkley of Green Bay and Myron Hinkley of Mt. Vernon, Iowa, all of whom were in attendance at the funeral.

Mrs. Livingston was a kind and loving wife and mother and a woman who will be greatly missed in the community where she lived.

Funeral services were held from the home Tuesday morning, May 19th, at 10 o'clock, Rev. James Blake of this city officiating, and interment was made in Spirit Land cemetery. The services were largely attended, a number of relatives and friends from different parts of the county being present.

Bids Wanted.

Sealed bids will be received by Rev. Ladislav Demsky, route 6, Stevens Point, Wis., until 2 p. m. of Wednesday, June 3d, 1914, for the erection and completion of a two story frame parsonage. Plans and specifications can be had by calling for same at the residence of the designer, Frank Spalenka, 426 Normal avenue.

The right is reserved to reject or accept any or all proposals.

Rev. L. Demsky, Route 6, Stevens Point.

IT WAS A LIVELY STORM

Rain Fell in Torrents for a Few Minutes Thursday Afternoon—Was Accompanied by Wind.

Showers on Wednesday afternoon and night were followed at about 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon by one of the heaviest rain storms accompanied by high winds, that this immediate locality had witnessed in many moons. The rain "came down in sheets," resembling a genuine cloud burst, flooding mother earth in the few minutes that it fell, while fences, trees, etc., were blown down in different parts of the city, a smokestack at the Week Lumber Co. planing mill was blown over, snapping off two large poles and carrying electric light and telephone wires as it fell, necessitating the shutting down of the mill until repairs could be made.

Awnings in front of the Jos. Glinski store on Main street and the Jerzak meat market on North Second street were ripped and torn, and two large windows in the Chilla block on the latter thoroughfare were also blown in.

At St. Peter's church on the North Side a large stone cross, about three feet high, set over one of the front entrances, was blown down, and at the Automatic Cradle Co. plant a paper covering to a cupola, was torn away and a number of the roof boards also lifted and scattered to the winds, some being carried one hundred feet or more.

On the West Side, a small hay barn and other buildings belonging to Mrs. Geo. Somers were badly wrecked and other damage done in that vicinity.

Bicycle Collides With Auto.

Martin Fielz, a resident of the North Side, while coming from the south on his bicycle, shortly after noon last Saturday, ran into A. R. Week's auto, at the corner of Main and S. Third streets. Martin was thrown to the pavement and considerably stunned, his under lip being cut both inside and out. He was assisted into the H. D. McCulloch Co. store and given temporary treatment. The bicycle was rendered much the worse by the collision, the front wheel being put out of commission.

THE HALL OF FAME

Many Additional Pictures of Prominent Men Now Appear in the Halls of University of Wisconsin.

Recent additions to the "University of Wisconsin Hall of Fame" are: Bishop Daniel Fallows of the reformed Episcopal church of Cook county diocese, of Chicago, formerly a brigadier-general in the civil war; chief justice of the state supreme court, J. B. Winslow, '73, Madison; B. H. Meyer, '94, interstate commerce commissioner; John Muir, '54, San Francisco, discoverer of the Muir glacier; T. M. Walsh, '84, United States senator from Montana; Edward Shilbauer, '97, member of the Panama canal commission; Paul S. Reinsch, '92, United States minister to China; J. W. Wray, '93, chief engineer Chicago telephone company.

The Wisconsin Union, an organization of which all the male students of the university are members, last year adopted, through the executive body, the Union board, the idea of recognizing the work of alumni who have made a distinct success in their chosen fields of endeavor by placing their pictures in the Union rooms in the Y. M. C. A. building. Twenty nine prominent alumni were presented last year and eight have been chosen this year.

Among the best known alumni previously presented are: Francis E. McGovern, '90, governor of Wisconsin; Robert M. La Follette, '79, senator from Wisconsin; Charles R. Van Hise, '79, president of the University of Wisconsin; William Freeman Vilas, ex-senator from Wisconsin, and donor of a large sum of money to the University.

This idea first came into being five years ago through the combined action of students, alumni and members of the faculty. It did not become a reality until last year, but from now on each year there will be added the portraits of successful men who are alumni of the institution. The pictures are put up not for the sole sake of recognizing prominent alumni, but also as a source of inspiration to the undergraduates that they may go and do likewise in the years to come.

Elections of prominent alumni are carried on by consultations with members of the faculty and through the use of suggestion boxes that are placed in the various university buildings. No alumni who are active members of the faculty or prominent graduates who have attended the university with in a period of five years can be elected to the "hall of fame."

Graduates elected are notified and after their acceptance are asked to send pictures. These pictures are hung in the rooms of the Wisconsin Union with proper identification.

The pictures of 12 prominent Wisconsin athletes, who made records in their undergraduate career, are also hung in the "hall of fame." After this year a separate space and recognition is to be given to athletic heroes.

Machinery, Buggies, Etc.

Brunk & Mansavage is the name of a new firm who have just opened at Custer with a fine line of Clark buggies, carriages and wagons, also farm machinery of all kinds, including binders, mowers, manure spreaders, etc. They handle the celebrated McCormick and Champion machines. Don't forget their location and call them up or make them a call before buying. 20w3

To Dog Owners.

Notice is hereby given that owners of dogs must pay the tax upon their animals during the month of June. The tax must be paid to the city treasurer, who in return will give you a receipt and tag. The license fee is $1 for dogs and $3 for females. Kennel licenses, $10. In case the license is not paid during June, the chief of police will proceed to make collections and an additional charge of 25 cents will be made. John S. Hafsoos, Chief of Police.

Local News.

J. A. Bremmer, who had spent some weeks at Valentine, Neb., returned Friday.

Mrs. F. A. Ball and little son went to Marshfield last Thursday to visit for a few days.

Chas. H. Casbin transacted legal business at Ladysmith a couple of days the last of the week.

Wm. G. Atwell came up from Edgerton and spent Thursday with his mother, Mrs. W. F. Atwell, in this city.

Harold Playman has returned from the medical college of the University of Illinois, which he has been attending during the past year.

Ed. Week, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Week of Spokane, Wash., arrived in the city the last of the week to visit among relatives and friends for a few days.

Mrs. W. E. West will represent the Woman's Relief Corps of this city as a delegate to the annual state meeting, which will be held at Madison next month.

W. E. Macklin spent the last three days of the week fishing with a party of gentlemen friends from Milwaukee on the Wolf river, in the vicinity of Fremont.

Don C. Hall was over from Waupaca county, where he is combining politics with the theatrical business, neglecting no opportunity to advance his candidacy for state senator in this district.

Lawrence Pierce is again employed as shipping clerk at the Wisconsin River Paper Co. mills, the general store in which he was interested at Edgerton, and where he had spent a few weeks, having been disposed of.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Blanchard of Edgerton arrived in the city the last of the week to visit at the home of the latter's mother, Mrs. E. A. Sherman, on Clark street. Mr. Blanchard left for home on Friday, but Mrs. Blanchard remained for a longer visit.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Brown, who moved to Grand Rapids a couple of weeks ago, arrived in the city Saturday morning, Mrs. Brown being on her way to the Wisconsin Veterans' Home to spend the day with her father, Mr. Riordan, who is 84 years of age and gradually failing. Mr. Brown is a well known traveling salesman.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Behrendt, who were called to Elmwood, Pierce county, on account of the death of his brother, returned home Friday. The deceased, who was 28 years of age, met his death in a peculiar manner. His dog had chased a woodchuck into a hollow tree, and Mr. Behrendt was engaged in cutting it down, when the tree lodged in another, causing the hollow trunk to break in two and fall upon him with fatal results.

M. M. Riley, who several years ago delivered an address at the old rink in this city, on behalf of the Democratic party, becoming so deeply interested soon after the start that he pulled his coat and "waded in," died at a county hospital in Milwaukee some days ago. Mr. Riley was a lawyer, one of the most brilliant in Milwaukee when himself. It is said that he was wealthy on two different occasions, all of which he squandered, and was finally burned at the expense of the bar association.

Cripples Restored—Children have a primitive and even savage intolerance of physical deformity. Unfortunately, victims of crippling disease, inspire loathing where one might hope to find love and pity amongst civilized people.

While adults may have better control of themselves, their humanity is largely artificial and hence is extremely fragile.

In Boston there is a magnificent school for the training of crippled children. Pursuits and training are devised to make these handicapped children self-supporting citizens. A bus is provided to carry the children to and from school. Some children couldn't come otherwise.

The principal told me during a visit that even those who could walk with the aid of crutches were often not safe alone on the street. Able-bodied urchins attacked them, taunted them, and even snatched their crutches away and left them helpless.

It is generally accepted as a fact that the viciousness of some famous cripples has been defensive in part, and in part a retaliation for real and fancied insults.

A considerable proportion of deformity is preventable; practically all can be lessened or compensated. Hip disease and hunch backs, and most stiff joints in children, are due to tuberculosis. Cure of the disease and prevention of the deformity call for prolonged and expert treatment. Club foot, in infancy, is, under proper treatment, over a sufficiently long period, entirely curable.

Infantile paralysis is incurable, but much of the deformity can be prevented and corrected. One of the most ingenious of operations has been devised for the purpose. It consists in reattaching muscles in a manner which compels the unaffected muscles to do the work of the paralyzed ones.

Spinal curvature is a most stubborn deformity unless intelligent treatment is begun immediately when it is discovered. In this stage it is usually to be remedied by simple corrective gymnastics persistently carried out.

Bow legs and knock knees are important mainly as they affect the appearance of their owner. In the present struggle for existence a child should be freed from every possible handicap. A mis-shapen body is a terrible handicap. In addition to their own importance, deformities prepare the soil for other diseases which may be due to unnatural living conditions as regard exercise, etc.

The Children's Hospital of Milwaukee (philanthropic), the State Public School for Dependent Children and the Milwaukee County Hospital are public institutions in Wisconsin, especially equipped and manned to treat deformities. No deformity, no matter of how long standing, should be assumed to be incapable of improvement, except upon the advice of a competent surgeon.

HIGH COST OF LIVING

Subject Discussed Before a Stevens Point Audience at Grand Opera House Last Thursday Evening.

There was an unusually large gathering at the library club rooms last Thursday evening, where it had been announced that Gov. Francis E. McGovern would tell the people all about the high cost of living, including the remedy, of course, but as his excellency could not get here until 8 o'clock, coming on the Portage branch of the Soo, as was later learned, the original program was changed. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Business Men's Association, supper being served by the ladies of St. Agnes Guild of the Episcopal church at 6:30, with music by Weber's orchestra and vocal selections by a quartette consisting of A. J. Miller, Harry Cowles, L. J. N. Murat and F. E. Noble, all of which was greatly enjoyed. After cigars had been passed, an adjournment was taken to the Grand, where it was announced that the governor would commence speaking at 8:30 o'clock.

So far as known this was the third appearance of Gov. McGovern in Stevens Point, he having spent but brief periods here on two previous occasions, making no address and meeting but few of our citizens, however, at these times. T. H. Hanna, president of the Business Men's Association, introduced the governor in a few well chosen words, the latter saying he had come with no prepared speech, but nevertheless it was nearly 11 o'clock before he thanked the audience for their presence and patience and retired amid applause. He admitted that the cost of living may be reduced by a reduction of tariff, but charged it mainly to demand and supply, saying that while our population has largely increased during the past five, ten and twenty years it has been in the cities only, and not in the rural districts and farming communities, upon whom we depend for our food supplies. The speaker dwelt at length along this line, and showed the manipulations of commission men and others to keep up prices of everything they handle, thereby bracing up the high cost of living.

The governor spoke at length in defense of state commissions, many of which have been appointed during his term of office, and spoke of the cost to the taxpayer of three of them, the railroad, the dairy and food, and the industrial commission, and of the benefit derived through them by the people, but failed to mention the score or more of other commissions that are supported by annual expenses of hundreds of thousands of dollars. He closed his talk with a plea for a bill known as the farmers' market bill, which he endeavored to have passed by the legislature, but failed. He would have the public believe that the passage of the bill, a similar bill would reduce the high cost of living, but utterly failed to do so.

President's Critics Superficial.

Perhaps President Wilson has some thought of himself when he said, "I fancy that it is just as hard to do your duty when men are sneering at you as when they are shooting at you," though he has borne the most vicious attacks with a cheerful countenance. His enemies were violent, if not numerous, and latterly some of his former friends have become severely critical because they are not satisfied with the development of his Mexican policy. They are puzzled by his move against Vera Cruz and charge him with inconsistency. Every act of a leader, however, should be accepted as a development in accord with his general policy until the contrary is proved, and in this case the critics skim the surface and merely guess at what is going on below. They fail to realize that the fuller information which they lack, the sudden demands of a peculiar situation that are known only to its closest students, may clear away what seems to them inconsistent, and in all fairness they should accept for the present the chart that the president himself has furnished them. — Chicago Record-Herald.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

McGraw was severely criticised when he accepted Fromme in the Cincinnati deal. His critics admitted the Rhinelander's ability, but accused him of being an in and out.

McGraw said nothing, however, but has been quietly working Fromme into the Giants' way of playing baseball, and now has him hit as a fiddle. Fromme can pitch like a whirlwind when he is in the mood, and Muggsy is keeping him that way.

Coombs to Return to Game.

John Coombs, the Athletics' famous pitcher, will be able to get into the game again in about six weeks. That is the statement given out by the physicians who examined him. Coombs has been wearing a specially made brace to support his back since leaving the hospital last fall. This was removed about three weeks ago, when Coombs went to Philadelphia to be examined by Dr. J. B. Carnett, who has been treating him.

Dr. Carnett found that the old wound had healed and that Coombs suffered no weakness of the back. Coombs weighs 155 pounds and looks to be in fine condition. Dr. Carnett gave the pitcher permission to start exercising at once.

Fritts Has Good Record.

Sailor Fred Fritts, who defeated Tom Kennedy in New York recently, boasts of an impressive record as a "white hope." Fritts began boxing in the navy about eighteen months ago and to date has engaged in twelve bouts, boxing a total of fifty-six rounds. He won nine bouts by knockouts, and in only one was defeated, losing on points to Battling Levinsky.

Fritts won the heavyweight championship of the navy in two battles, knocking out the runner up in two rounds and then the title holder in four. Since leaving the service he has had ten bouts.

O'Day Having Troubles.

Hank O'Day is not having easy sailing with the Cubs. He finds that his infield is not of the proper caliber, and he is thinking seriously of making some changes. Unfortunately for Hank, he is not well fortified with extra material, and he may find it no easy matter to make changes which will benefit his team. The loss of Evers naturally left a big hole in that infield, which until a few years ago was by far the most expert in the game. In the days of Steinfeldt, Tinker, Evers and Chance that infield was a great one, but not one of these players is now a member of the Cubs.

Boy Fans Twenty-seven.

Westboro high school in a sixteen inning game defeated Marlboro high at Westboro, Mass., for the Middlesex county leadership by a score of 1 to 0.

The feature of the battle was Whitney's pitching for the winner. The high school twirler in the sixteen innings allowed the Marlboro batsmen only two hits, passed five and struck out twenty-seven. Colleary, who pitched for Marlboro, was found for six safe hits and struck out fifteen of the Westboro lads.

Change Resolute's Rigging.

Changes in the racing rigging of the cup defense candidate Resolute will prevent further trial spins for a short while. The Resolute had had three sail trials in Narragansett bay, during which her designer, Nat Herreshoff, and the managing owner, R. W. Emmons 2d, have made a critical study of her performances and have decided upon certain changes in her rigging.

Builders of Wisconsin Farms

Because he has followed in the path of the dairy cow,—success and prosperity is the lot of the Wisconsin farmer. Because the dairy herd is the central feature upon Wisconsin farms,—the state is today the Greatest Dairy State in the Union, and one of the richest agriculturally.

The Dairy Cow Wins a Great Victory in Wisconsin

The dairy cow has won a great victory in Wisconsin. Back in the 70's there were many sections in the state where the farms were so "run down" and unproductive that they were actually abandoned. The once virgin soils no longer yielded abundant crops; their strength and fertility exhausted by continuous years of wheat raising. Farming was all but ruined. It was under these conditions that the dairy cow was introduced into Wisconsin agriculture and from that day on she has steadily restored the lost fertility to the "worn out" soils, regained the agricultural prestige of the state, and enriched her owners.

Every progressive farmer is a subscriber to farm papers. Every progressive farmer in Wisconsin should be a subscriber to a dairy farm paper,—and that paper should be—

Hoard's Dairyman

Right here in your own state, almost at your door, is published the leading dairy journal of the world. It is the only one of its kind in the dairy industry. Hoard's Dairyman is a wide-awake, up-to-date paper for the dairy farmer. It is a hand-book of timely and helpful information. It is a platform for the dairy farmer to express his views, and it is a place where he can get the latest news of the dairy world.

HOARD'S DAIRYMAN is the only agricultural paper in Wisconsin owning a farm that is kept constantly under the direct management of its editors.

Make 1914 Your Best Year

For the coming year Hoard's Dairyman will contain many features of special interest and value to Wisconsin farmers. It will help you to make this year your best year. Personal experiences of some of Wisconsin's most successful dairymen will be published. A series of articles on dairy farm management will be contributed by the eminent authority, Prof. D. H. Otis, and the reports and discussions upon the in which nearly 300 of Wisconsin's best managed dairy farms are entered, will form topics of absorbing interest. Soil fertility, rotation of crops, feeding and breeding problems, the raising of alfalfa, sanitation, farm buildings, dairy breeds, and scores of other vital subjects are discussed every week in Hoard's Dairyman with a fairness and directness that meets the needs of the beginner as well as the experienced dairyman.

A Mean Man.

Tommy—Pop, a man is a bachelor until he gets married, isn't he? Tommy's Pop—Yes, my son. Tommy—And what does he call himself afterward? Tommy's Pop—I'd hate to tell you, my son.—Philadelphia Record.

The Plain of Curragh.

The Curragh (a plain in the County Kildare, Ireland) is a stretch of open ground of about 4,800 acres and serves the twin purposes of a large military camp and a race course, and in the latter capacity it has a reputation extending as far back as the first century A. D., at which period, if records may be accepted, chariot races were a diversion which the people of the time permitted themselves. The camp only dates from the Crimean war. The plain of Curragh was often the scene of hostile engagements between early Irish kings, and it is St. Bridget who is credited with having received a grant of the district from the King of Leinster and with having turned it into a common. The young men of Kildare are often jokingly described as "the boys of the short grass" in allusion to the herbage of the district of Curragh.—Westminster Gazette.

One of the Weather Men.

Shortly after the establishment of a station in Wytheville by the weather bureau a youth named Tom erected a signal pole on his mother's coal shed. He would daily hoist flags of his own in imitation of the ones of the government. This was done so persistently that Mary, a neighbor's daughter, soon adjusted her movements for the day to Tom's flags.

On the morning for a picnic she was rejoiced at the sight of a fair weather flag flying from Tom's flagpole. Her mother, being discouraged by the number of clouds, remarked, "You cannot depend on his flags, for he may not have followed the weather man's." Mary, thinking them thoroughly reliable, said, "You can depend on them, mother, for Tom does his own guessing."—National Monthly.

THY BETTER SELF.

Be true to thy better self. The noblest thing you ever did, the noblest emotion you ever felt, the deepest and most self sacrificing love ever in your soul, that is your true self still through all the baser life into which you may have fallen.—Phillips Brooks.

Fishermen's Language.

A correspondent of the English magazine, Country Life, has been studying the vocabulary of Hastings fishermen. He says: "Where there is a dead calm, with the air hot and moist, the weather is said to be 'planety.' If it is oppressively sultry with a heavy sky and oily sea it is 'swallowy,' and presages a storm, which often breaks suddenly with a roaring squall. A long loop of cloud with trailing ends is designated an 'eddenbite,' blown out streamers of white cloud are 'windogs,' large wool-pack-like clouds scurrying before a high wind are 'messengers,' small, widely scattered clouds floating in an otherwise clear sky, are 'postboys.' Occasionally, when the sun is setting, a mock sun is seen on each side of the solar disk. This phenomenon goes by the name of 'smitherdiddles' and is regarded as a sign of bad weather. A thick, soaking mist, moving rapidly from the land over the sea, is called an 'egger jagger.'"

FLEETING TIME.

Make the most of the time allotted to you. Mark how fleeting and paltry is the estate of man—yesterday in embryo, tomorrow a mummy or ashes. So, for the hair's breadth of time assigned to thee, live rationally and part with life cheerfully, as drops the ripe olive, extolling the season that bore it and the tree that matured it.—Marcus Aurelius.

His Brand of English.

At the Union Ironworks, San Francisco, a steamer was undergoing repairs. The chief engineer—a Scot, of course—requiring a hammer in a hurried moment, turned to a German mechanic and in his momentary excitement, lapsing into his native speech, said, "Gle us yer pelty, mon."

"Vat?" asked the Teuton in surprise. "Yer pelty—pelty?"

"It's yer hammer he wants," interrupted another Scot, who was also working on the job.

"Thank the Lord there's one mon among ye wha understands the king's English!" growled the chief engineer as he took the "pelty."—Argonaut.

Nothing Unusual.

Several years ago a tourist fell over a rock from a height of about 300 feet, near Europa Point, Gibraltar. He was killed, of course. The lieutenant in charge of the guardroom, however, inserted in his guard report for the day that "nothing unusual had occurred."

For this he was "carpeted" before the town mayor, who asked for an explanation.

"Well, sir," replied the young officer, a Scotsman, "if the puir mannie had na' been kilt it would have been a very extraordinary fact, but as the puir body was kilt—why, sir, I thought it was na' extraordinary or unusual."

The plea was accepted.

Babylon.

We are pretty much in the dark in regard to the ancient city of Babylon. Even no estimate is given of the number of inhabitants in Babylon at any one time. Sennacherib sacked and demolished the city 690 B. C. and made the very site unrecognizable. The city was rebuilt by Esarhaddon. Just when it again disappeared is not made clear in history, but it never attained its former eminence. Nothing definite is known of its actual size.—Philadelphia Press.

Sick Headache.

Mrs. A. L. Luckie, East Rochester, N. Y., was a victim of sick headache and dizziness, caused by a badly weakened and debilitated condition of her stomach, when she began taking Chamberlain's Tablets. She says, "I found them pleasant to take, also mild and effective. In a few weeks' time I was restored to my former good health." For sale by all dealers.

And Went.

"When I leave you tonight"—began Mr. Stophate. "Goodness!" interrupted Miss Ter sleep. "Coming again tonight?" He glanced at the clock and apprehended her meaning.—Exchange.

Notice to Auto Drivers.

You are hereby notified that the practice of speeding and reckless driving of automobiles, motorcycles, and other vehicles must stop. A greater effort will be made this year to check the fast driving and the needless use of the "cut-out" than has heretofore been done. The state law and city ordinances governing this matter will be rigidly enforced. The state law provides that an automobile, motorcycle or other vehicle must be driven at a speed not to exceed fifteen miles per hour and that, if streets are crowded, this speed must be reduced. It further provides that when passing a school house the vehicle must not be driven at a speed over eight miles per hour.

This is a word of warning as we are going to enforce the law.
John S. Hafsoos,
Chief of Police.

HANDICAPPED

This is the Case With Many Stevens Point People.

Too many Stevens Point citizens are handicapped with bad backs. The unceasing pain causes constant misery, making work a burden and stooping or lifting an impossibility. The back aches at night, preventing refreshing rest and in the morning is stiff and lame. Plasters and liniments may give relief but cannot reach the cause if the kidneys are weak. To eliminate the pains and aches of kidney backache you must cure the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for weak kidneys—thousands testify to their merit. Can you doubt Stevens Point evidence?

Mrs. C. W. Brooks, 717 Strong's avenue, Stevens Point, Wis., says: "About ten years ago I used Doan's Kidney Pills and they brought me great relief from pains in my back and trouble with my kidneys. I was benefited so much in every way that I willingly recommended Doan's Kidney Pills and I hope [that others will find the same lasting good] that I did."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for 'a kidney remedy'—Get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Brooks had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

Fooled the Culprit.

Dr. Kennedy, a former head master of St. Albans school, has a keen sense of humor. One year, on April 1, an audacious schoolboy put the school clock forward, and the chapel bell was rung an hour too soon. The culprit duly received the alarming order to come to the head master's room a little before noon.

Preparations were made for the usual form of punishment. The cane whizzed in the air, but, bracing his nerves to meet its descent the victim found himself untouched. A second time he heard it swung with sound and fury, yet it signified nothing. The boy was still trembling for the third stroke when he heard the master's voice:

"Go away, you April fool!"—London Answers.

The Coldest Hour.

The proverb which tells us that "the darkest hour is that before dawn" is inaccurate, for light increases in the morning as gradually as it decreases in the evening. The saying should be "the coldest hour," etc., which is perfectly true and is owing to causes connected with the deposit of dew. Hoarfrosts, too, usually take place just before daylight and are an additional cause of the peculiar chilliness of this time.—London Mail.

What the Old Man Feared.

The head of a certain Washington family was recently approached by his son just nearing his majority. "Father," said he, "I want to have a talk with you concerning my future. I have decided to become an artist. Have you any objections?"

The old man scratched his head reflectively and replied:

"Well, no, son—provided, of course, that you don't draw on me."—Lippincott's.

Grouchy.

"There is a movement on foot," said Mr. Snoope, "to prevent the marriage of weak-minded persons. What do you think of it?"

"I think it's rot," answered Mr. Grouch. "Why, who else ever wants to get married?"—Cleveland Leader.

An Exception.

Mudge—Here's a man figured out that if all the money in the world were divided equally each adult would get about $30. Meeg—He's wrong. My wife would get $60.—Boston Transcript.

Just Gossip.

"There is a great deal of gossip about Gwendolyn's eyebrows."

"Don't mind it. Her eyebrows are not as black as they are painted."—Baltimore American.

The Whale's Blow.

Porpoise—What is the whale blowing about? Dogfish—Oh, he got so many notices for his feat in swallowing Jonah he's been blowing ever since.—Exchange.

I wish I had a million plunks.

I know just what I'd do. I'd spend it all upon myself. Then borrow one from you! —New York Sun.

There was a little Democratic love feast in Milwaukee the other day, when a call signed by 10,752 Democrats from different parts of the state was presented to Judge John C. Karel, asking that gentleman to become a candidate for governor of Wisconsin. The meeting was held at the Blatz Hotel, where a committee of ten, one of whom was Dr. L. P. Pasternacki of this city, was appointed to confer with Judge Karel relative to his accepting the nomination. After a short conference, the call was formally accepted and an active campaign will be commenced at once by Judge Karel to win out in the primary election. Those present expressed themselves in favor of holding a convention, and one will no doubt soon be called.

The conservative or stalwart faction of the Republican party has called a convention to nominate a state ticket, which will be held at Madison, Tuesday, June 23, and if all counties are represented a total of 1,065 delegates will attend. Next will no doubt come a call for a convention to be held by the other wing of the party, the progressives, and thereafter the war will be on. In their call the stalwarts take a whack at the so-called unwise tariff legislation and then get after the state administration for the extravagance of the University, the laws governing the construction of highways, which have opened the doors to extravagance and should be changed, while state taxes are excessive and there is a well founded complaint among the people that the revenues of the state are wasted by useless commissions and state offices and agents.

It is evident from the latter sentence that Gov. McGovern will not be an invited guest to this convention, or at least he was not consulted before the call was made. "Useless commissions!" Why the governor says Wisconsin has not enough of them, and he is already advocating another one to tell the farmer when and how to sell his potatoes, barley, rye and peas, just as a remedy for "the cost of living."

Those Chilly Boston Girls.

The beautiful Boston girl was ailing, and a physician had been summoned.

"Doctor," said the fond mother, "is it anything serious?"

"At present," replied the wise medical man, "I am not prepared to state. We must await developments. She has a high fever. Her temperature is thirty-five."—New York Globe.

The Soo is making many improvements on the Portage-Stevens Point branch, among them being the construction of a new bridge to take the place of the old overhead structure at Endeavor, the laying of new eighty pound steel between Montello and Packwaukee, the line between Montello and Stevens Point having heretofore been equipped, and the building of a new roundhouse at Portage to replace the one recently destroyed by fire.

Mysterious Disappearance of Valuable Witness Who Came From Chicago To Testify in Circuit Court.

J. H. Bailey vs. Sellers Hotel Co. Jury returned a special verdict in favor of plaintiff.

In the cases of J. L. Jensen, W. E. Langenberg, F. A. Degen, J. N. Peickert and Herman H. Pagel vs. Sellers Hotel Co., five cases in all, it was stipulated that they be continued to abide by the result of the case of J. H. Bailey against the hotel company.

E. W. Sellers vs. Sellers Hotel Co. Case continued and defendant given leave to amend answer.

Albert Gunney vs. John F. Polly. Dismissed upon application of plaintiff.

State of Wisconsin vs. A. W. White. Defendant brought into court charged with having violated his parole, but at the request of R. M. Justad, field probation officer of the state board of control, he was given another chance.

Henry Lennop vs. Fred Eckstein et al. Judgment of foreclosure and sale for $2,128.51.

State of Wisconsin vs. August Lubetsky. Defendant arraigned and information charging him with assault with intent to do great bodily harm read by District Attorney Sickelsteel. To this he entered a plea of guilty, but sentence was deferred until later.

Empire Cream Separator Co. vs. J. Mansavage. Jury returned a special verdict in favor of the defendant.

Charles M. Wirth vs. Anna Long. Judgment for plaintiff.

Carl Gauhke vs. Gustav Gauhke. Jury returned a special verdict in favor of the plaintiff.

George W. Neumann vs. Edward Kreschbaum. Waupaca county special. Judgment of foreclosure and sale.

State vs. August Lubetsky. Defendant charged with assault with intent to do great bodily harm. The victim, an old man, was employed on the assailant's farm in the town of Dewey, the latter going to his home from this city in an intoxicated condition and upon his arrival gave the aged man a shameful beating. Lubetsky then left for parts unknown, remaining away about eighteen months. Upon his return he was arrested, entered a plea of guilty to the charge, and was given the same length of time, eighteen months, to repent of his folly behind the bars at Waupun. Judge O'Neill, who is presiding in court here in place of Judge Park, who is taking his place at Neillsville, pronounced sentence. The prisoner, who had endeavored to make a long explanation of his conduct, thanked the court, making a low bow in doing so and seemed as well pleased as though he was being sent to some resort to spend the summer months.

At the last December term of court a jury rendered a verdict in favor of the defendant in the case of Ed. Minton vs. John F. Fleet. At this time Judge Park has set the verdict aside, holding that the evidence did not warrant the verdict.

A jury in the case of Sigmund Green vs. John Fleet was secured Monday forenoon, after which the remaining members of the jury drawn for this term, were discharged until called for. Everything progressed finely during the afternoon, but that night one of the principal witnesses, John Wagner (or Czaplowski) of Chicago, disappeared as mysteriously as though the earth had opened and swallowed him. Together with other witnesses, he was stopping at one of our local boarding houses, and after supper it is said that Wagner was called out by a man who was a stranger to the others, and together with a woman, they stood on an opposite corner, intently engaged in conversation, for fully half an hour. Wagner then returned to the hotel and informed his companions that he wished to step out a few doors away, but would be back in a few minutes. As time passed into half hours and hours, the other strangers became alarmed and the Greens and their attorneys were informed.

All outgoing trains were watched, but Wagner did not board any of them, and it is said that he was crossing public square, going west, in company with the man and woman, when last seen.

The court, attorneys on both sides and city and county officials were diligent for a number of hours, Tuesday in an endeavor to locate Wagner, but this forenoon, upon advice of Judge O'Neill, the litigation between Fleet and the Green Bros. was settled. It includes the case of Minton vs. Fleet, the decision in which was set aside last Saturday by Judge Park, the case of Green Bros. vs. Fleet and two slander cases brought against Fleet by the Green Bros.

No more jury cases will be tried at this term, the remaining members of the jury being dismissed this afternoon. Judge O'Neill will remain here until Friday hearing court cases.

Have Commenced Housekeeping.

Martin Winkler, Jr., a freight brakeman on the Portage branch of the Soo during the past couple of years, and Miss Margaret Baronskey of the town of Holton, Marathon county, were married at the Catholic church at Dorchester at 9 o'clock last Saturday morning. John Winkler, brother of the groom, and Miss Josephine Baronskey, sister of the bride, were the attendants.

The young couple returned to Stevens Point at once and are now at home at 502 Park street. For some time previous to a few months ago, the bride was employed at the Soo eating house, South Side, and the groom spent his boyhood days here, at which time his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Winkler, Sr., now of North Fond du Lac, were residents of Stevens Point.

HIDING THE JOKER NUGGET.

An Incident of the Early Australian Gold Diggings.

Among the rich finds in the Australian gold diggings the Joker nugget ranks among the chief. It turned the scale at thirty ounces and was sold for $900. In size and shape it resembled a man's hand, thick at the wrist part and tapering off toward the fingers.

The claim had been a good one from the first, and the owner did not have to work hard. One day he was reclining on his back idly searching for nuggets when he caught sight of the Joker. He dug it up, covered it with his hand and kept his father wondering how he would secure the treasure without being seen. If the find became known even, man in the field would tramp to the spot and invade his claim and so prevent his working.

A man in an adjoining claim looked up and anything? he asked. "No. See the color; that's all. Pitch my shovel over to me, will you? It's lying over there. I want a smoke." "Here you be, mate. But what's the matter? You look pale. Don't you feel right?" "I'm all right, only the sun is a bit hot."

He was struggling with an insane desire to laugh, but he got his coat over the nugget and seated himself on the top of it. Then laughter overpowered him, and he became hysterical. Those about him wondered, but thought the sun had affected him.

In a little while he gained his composure and decided to go to his tent. In lifting his coat he managed to take up the lump of gold, and no one knew that he had found anything. It was not until ten days had passed that the fact was noted abroad, and even then few knew the claim whence the Joker came.

TWO MONDAY WEDDINGS

One Takes Place in This City and the Other at Oshkosh—Both Couples to Reside Elsewhere.

At 8 o'clock Monday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Neumann, 215 Boyington avenue, their daughter, Miss Lucie, was joined in wedlock to Theodore P. Trade of Beaver Dam, Rev. B. O. Richter, pastor of St. Paul's German Evangelical Lutheran church, officiating. There were no attendants and the event was strictly a family affair, only immediate relatives being present.

The bride is a popular young lady resident of Stevens Point, this city having always been her home, but for three years prior to a couple of months ago she was employed at the Northern hospital, Winnebago. The groom has every appearance of being a reliable, upright young man and is a tinsmith at Beaver Dam, where they will make their future home, leaving for that place Tuesday morning followed by the well wishes of all.

At 2 o'clock Monday afternoon Miss Viola Ressler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Ressler of this city, and Frank G. Herman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Herman of Plover, were married by Rev. Taylor, pastor of the Oshkosh German M. E. church, at his residence. Following the ceremony the young couple boarded a Soo train for Amherst Junction, thence over the Green Bay to Plover, where they spent a couple of days at the home of the groom's parents, leaving for North Fond du Lac today to take up the duties of married life, and where the groom is employed as a stenographer for Supt. C. M. Winter of the Soo.

This city has always been the home of the bride and she was a Senior in this year's High school class, dropping out a few months ago to go to Oshkosh. The groom graduated here four years ago, and before going to North Fond du Lac was an assistant accountant in the Soo offices here. Well wishes for a long and happy life follow Mr. and Mrs. Herman.

The Grand Army members, Woman's Relief Corps, a delegation of school children and the band will devote the earlier part of the forenoon to paying tribute to soldier and sailor dead. Exercises will be held at the river bank, at Greenwood and at Lower Amherst cemeteries. Pupils of the Lower Amherst school are also preparing a short program, which will precede the decorating of graves. P. N. Peterson has kindly consented to act as officer of the day and Hollis Wilson as orderly.

PLAINFIELD.

Ernie Elliott is confined to his bed with measles this week.
The banquet at the Plainfield High school Friday was a very enjoyable affair.

Chas. Margeson of Grand Rapids was a guest of his sister, Mrs. J. W. Bovee, over Sunday.
Mr. and Mrs. H. McCoog and Frank McCoog and wife were auto visitors to Grand Rapids Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Rice of Bancroft mourn the loss of their infant child, which was born April 23d and died May 16th at 2:30 o'clock of that dreadful disease, whooping cough.

ELLIS.

Mrs. N. Dzwonkoski and Mrs. J. Kabot were on the sick list the past week.
D. I. Sickelsteel, the district attorney of Portage county, and G. W. Andrae are seen often in this vicinity.

We are all rejoicing at the rich color the fields are wearing after the beautiful and abundant rainfall Thursday and Sunday.

Lake Emily.

The G. B. & W. railroad has put up a nice depot here.
A. H. Gluszcinski has built an addition to his cottage.

H. N. Nelson is adding a kitchen part to his cottage.
Five new boats have been placed on the lake this spring.

Some very nice catches of fish have been made thus far this season.
June 20th the Portage county old settlers' picnic will be held here and a record breaking crowd is expected.

Friday, May 29th, the schools of Amherst Junction and Amherst will hold a picnic and give a program here.
F. B. Seymour, general superintendent of the G. B. & W. R. R., was here last week looking after the cleaning up on his side of the lake. Mr. Seymour owns two up-to-date cottages at this resort.

The Amherst Junction base ball club has secured from F. B. Seymour the lease of the ball grounds on the lake front. This will make an ideal location for teams to meet, as the G. B. & W. and the Soo line run trains nearby.

Through the generosity of the people of Amherst Junction we have now a nice band and speakers' stand, 16x16 feet, with a roof and the sides made so as to open. This makes it very nice for parties who wish to come here for public doings.

Mrs. Hazeltine of Fennimore is visiting here at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Dale.
We notice Dr. Whiteside now makes his calls here in a new automobile, recently purchased.

All should remember that our annual school meeting will be held this year in June, being next Monday night, June 1st.

Tim Fox returned from Kilbourn Saturday and reports an enjoyable time in taking in the sights at the Dells of the Wisconsin river.

Our teacher, Miss Nutter, assisted by others, is preparing a Decoration day program, which will be given at the church Sunday afternoon, the 31st.

Orrin Clendenning has been using his steam traction engine for plowing and breaking up new land. He says it works very nicely, hauling two large 16 inch breaking plows at a time with perfect ease.

Clinton Clusman had a very lucky accident Saturday afternoon. He was painting on the roof of F. Winkler's new barn, when the ladder and stage-gave way, giving him a fall of about 20 feet. He was very fortunate in escaping with only a badly sprained ankle and a hard shaking up.

WAS A PLEASING PLAY

Normal Seniors Present Annual Class Comedy to Good Sized Audience at the Grand.

There was a well pleased audience at the Grand last Friday evening, in fact all were so greatly delighted that they wore a smile from the opening of the first act to the closing of the last, the occasion being the presentation of the annual Senior class play by Normal students, the title being, "Lost—A Chaperone." Excellent judgment was shown in the selection of the cast by Prof. E. T. Smith of the Normal faculty, who had the play in charge throughout, as each portrayed his or her part like a professional, showing good talent and careful training.

While the attendance was fair, it was not as large as the annual Senior class play always deserves, this occasion being no exception, it being a well selected three act comedy.

Choice music was furnished during the intermissions. The presentation was a success financially as well as socially. The names of those who took part are: Messrs. Clarence Strand, Worth Dafeo, Wm. O'Connell, Alf Anderson, Clay Crouse, Albro Walters, and Misses Helen Klinke, Jessie Burce, Madge Crandall, Pearl Richards, Isla Stockley, Charlotte Watson.

County Commencement Exercises. The first central county commencement exercises will be held at Stevens Point, at the Normal school, on Saturday, June 6th. On this day at 10 a. m. the county spelling contest will be conducted by Supt. Bannach, assisted by Mr. Phelan, the director of the rural school course. The spelling will be both written and oral. At 1 o'clock the commencement exercises will begin, following which the graduates will receive their county diplomas. The public is cordially invited to be present at both exercises. Yours truly, F. C. Bannach.

How to Store Winter Clothes.

Don't despair if you haven't a cedar chest.
Your winter clothes can be safely put away without this desirable bit of furniture and without the disagreeable odor of moth balls.

The prime requisites in putting away winter clothes are: Thorough brushing and cleansing; exposure to the air and bright sunlight for several hours; and tightly closing the bags in which they are placed.

"Sunshine is one of the best disinfectants known; direct sunlight has caused the death of many a germ and moth egg," says Miss Anabel Turner, instructor in home economics of the University of Wisconsin Extension division, in telling housekeepers how to prepare winter clothing for summer storage. "If the clothes are well brushed and cleaned, with due attention to pockets and seams, then well exposed to bright sunlight, and tied up tightly in cotton bags, you may feel safe about them until the cold days bring them out again."

"Cedar chips may be put in the bags, but this is not necessary. Newspapers or tar paper may be used instead of cotton bags, but care must be taken to have the packages tightly sealed. Moth balls are undoubtedly effective, but the odor is disagreeable; camphor gum too is good, and not so disagreeable."

"In the case of clothing that will be needed occasionally, it may be remembered that moths seldom touch clothes that are frequently disturbed."

HAD A NARROW ESCAPE

Boys Unable to Guide Boat in River Saved From Drowning by Fire Department Chief.

Two youngsters about ten years of age had a narrow escape from going over the Jackson Milling Co. dam in a row boat last Saturday afternoon. The boys had been fishing a short distance from shore, when without realizing their position, the craft was carried out into the middle of the Wisconsin river, below the wagon bridge, the water being unusually high from the rains of the past week. They were both too small to use the oars to advantage, and were being carried down stream, when Chas. H. Packard, chief of the fire department, saw them and started out in one of his boats, hastily overtaking the helpless lads, but not until they were only within a few hundred feet of the crest of the dam. The chief succeeded in towing the frightened boys to shore, and it is needless to say that had it not been for his presence, The Gazette would have had another tragedy to chronicle. Heart-rending examples of the past seem but little warning for the present and future. There should be some method of punishing children who persist in going on the water, unaccompanied by parents or guardians, especially during high stage.

FLOGGED OUT OF THE ARMY.

Among the many pen names of the past "The Whistler at the Plow" was the happiest. It was chosen by Alexander Somerville long since dead, who wrote the sweetest prose ever penned about the fields and woods and hamlets and the beasts, birds, reptiles and people of Canada.

I glimpsed him once—a stupendous Scot, with long white hair hanging over his shoulders and an expression of supreme sadness on the noble face. But he had the clear blue eye of the Scot—an eye that had an amber glint in it when he was roused.

He was an ex-soldier, but he did not serve out his term of enlistment in the army; neither did he get an honorable discharge.

Alexander Somerville was a private in one of the crack cavalry regiments of Great Britain and Ireland—I think it was the famous Scots Greys, but I am not sure. He must have been a magnificent looking soldier.

At the time of the great Chartist movement in England he was stationed with his regiment somewhere in the Midlands. The Chartists were looked upon as an incipient French revolution. Their meetings were forbidden, coercive measures were undertaken, and things began to look bad. The Chartists—honest, I can't tell you what a Chartist was, but he was, I fancy, an ultra Liberal or Radical of those days—decided to hold a procession. The authorities decided to prevent it, and a bloody clash was billed for the next Sunday.

The Scots Greys were ordered to rough what their sabers in preparation to resist the mob. A saber so treated breaks bones and tears and bruises the flesh, but it doesn't sink deep. It was a terrible order, and Alexander Somerville, the future "Whistler at the Plow," refused to obey. He could not draw his sword on his fellow countrymen who were demanding liberty.

A corporal's guard seized Private Alexander Somerville. He was tried for insubordination by a court martial and was sentenced to be flogged and then dismissed from the army. He refused a flogging, with the result that he was sent to the gallows and as many of the officers as could be looking on—without a cry or a groan—and while the execution business—a business that would have made Sitting Bull or Red Cloud miserably ashamed—was going on he came out to this freedom and a new, broken and melancholy man, to sing of freedom among the free-lins.

Laying Bridge Floors.

The most interesting and dangerous looking stage in the construction of a suspension bridge is the building of the floor, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. In this work the builders have nothing to rest their work on and must build out a way from the towers, setting the floor piece by piece to the heavy steel bars suspended from the main cables far above. The work is done with derricks that are equipped with booms long enough to reach out ahead of the finished structure and hold the girders suspended while they are being riveted in place. As each section of the floor is completed the derricks are moved ahead and the construction of the next section is begun.

He Was the Whole Cabinet.

The record concentration of office into a single hand was achieved by the Duke of Wellington in 1834, when William IV. suddenly parted with his Whig ministers. Sir Robert Peel, who was to form the new ministry, was in Rome, and it took between three and four weeks for the king's messenger to reach him and for him to return, travelling almost continuously night and day. In the meantime Wellington was practically the entire government. He really held the offices only of first lord of the treasury and home secretary, but any one of the secretaries of state can perform the duties of any other or all of them, and this Wellington actually did—Westminster Gazette.

The Ambiguous Phonetic.

Phonetic spelling has many recommendations, but if you spell by speech and ear you may print ambiguously. For instance, Mr. Escott, in his "Club Makers and Club Members," gives the history of White's club "till it reached its present proprietor and analyst." Now "annalist" and "analyst" are pronounced alike, but printing would lose in clearness if they were spelled alike.—London Standard.

The Shop Opposite

By F. A. MITCHEL

"The shop opposite," said Mrs. Smith to her husband one morning while they were dressing, "has been at last taken. The sign 'To Let' has disappeared."

"Um!" grunted Mr. Smith, who was tying his cravat before the mirror.

"The shop opposite has been opened as a meat and vegetable market," said Mrs. Smith to her husband a few mornings later while he was brushing his hair.

"Um!" said Mr. Smith again. "Do you know, dear," said Mrs. Smith on a third occasion, "that the shop opposite is kept by a very pretty, ladylike woman? She has such a sad face."

"Why do you take so much interest in the shop opposite?" asked Mr. Smith.

"I admit that at first it was through curiosity, but now it is from a different motive. This sad faced woman is doing a very good business. She is selling much cheaper than the other stores, but delivers no goods. Every purchaser must carry home what he has bought."

"I don't yet see the motive you spoke of."

"I haven't got to it yet. What puzzles me is that, though there are many purchases, there are few buyers. I have been able to count only seven persons going into the store today, but some of them have gone in eight or ten times."

"You don't call that curiosity, do you?"

"No."

"What is it?"

"Interest."

"Um!" said Mr. Smith, and he went downstairs to breakfast.

That was the beginning of what became, to Mrs. Smith, a mystery, but in which Mr. Smith took no interest whatever. If his wife told him that one little pale faced boy took out twenty packages during the day he simply remarked that the shopwoman had probably hired him to make deliveries. Probably she would set up a wagon after awhile.

"I tell you, dear," said Mrs. Smith one morning, when the shop opposite had been running several weeks, "there's something peculiar about that business. I never see any of the neighbors trading there. I've watched the persons who go in there and they are nearly all under twenty years of age. I know every one of them. There's a young fellow about eighteen, a girl about sixteen, a—"

"Surely, my dear, you were right when you said your motive was interest, not curiosity," said Mr. Smith ironically.

"I shall not say anything more to you about that shop, but you'll find out."

"I am quite content to await developments."

Two days after this announcement Mrs. Smith said to her husband:

"I was looking out the window yesterday and saw that pale faced boy coming out with so many bundles he couldn't carry them. He dropped one of them on the sidewalk, the paper broke, and what do you suppose came out on the flags?"

"What?"

"Oh, I forgot. I wasn't to say anything more about the shop opposite, was I?"

"I suppose it was flour."

"No, it wasn't."

"Sugar?"

"No. You needn't ask any more. I shall not gratify your curiosity."

One morning Mrs. Smith got out of bed and, going to the window, uttered an exclamation of surprise.

"What is it, dear?" asked her husband.

"The shop opposite is closed, and a policeman is standing before the door."

"Well?"

"I do hope that poor woman hasn't got into trouble."

There was a brief silence, after which Mr. Smith asked his wife to tell him what had come out of the bundle that had dropped on the sidewalk.

"Dirt," she said.

"Dirt?"

"Yes, nothing but dirt."

Mr. Smith arose, dressed and went down to breakfast. His wife begged him to go across the street and ask the policeman what had happened, but he declined to go till after he had breakfasted. Then he sallied forth, talked awhile with the officer and returned.

"Well?" asked his wife.

"Your interest in the shop opposite had a foundation after all. You know the jail is on the other street, and it backs up against the shop. Last night a prisoner escaped through a tunnel leading from the shop to his cell. His wife kept the shop, his oldest son dug the tunnel, and his children carried away the earth in paper bags."

"Perhaps," replied Mrs. Smith, "when I tell you hereafter that something is going on in the neighborhood you'll believe me."

"I don't see why they keep these stupid men on the police force when they can get women. One woman for such a service is worth a hundred men."

"My dear," said Mrs. Smith a year later, "the man who escaped through the tunnel is innocent. The real criminal has confessed."

THE LINEN DRESS.

This Season's Models Are Finished With Graceful Tunics.

BLUE LINEN DRESS.

Every summer wardrobe which makes any pretension to style includes at least one linen dress. Fashion designers have a way of slightly varying the mode so that the dress of one season cannot well be exploited the following summer. This season the gown with the tunic seems to be the most popular style. The tunics differ a trifle, but the gown of blue linen shown here may be said to be typical. These colored linen dresses have a charming finish in the white organdie collars that are so much in vogue.

Plated fabrics are much used in the present fashions. There are straight plaited skirts with flaring tunics or puffed pinniers at the hips that are good models for taffeta frocks. Sometimes the fullness is held in with a hip yoke; sometimes it is not held in, but is, rather, accentuated by the pinniers or tunics.

MILLINERY GOSSIP.

The Latest Rulings of the French Fashion Dictators.

Simplicity is the most dominant feature of the smart street hat, the shape lending itself admirably to trimming ideas, says the Millinery Trade Review.

Paris quotes the era of weird shapes to be on the wane, as they feel they have been given an overdose of eccentricity, although there is no lack of variety and fantastic design in the latest productions.

In straw hats, closely plaited varieties predominate in Paris. Highly glazed lisere and Italian milan have been singled out. The former is fancied mostly in black, but tete de negre, navy and dark blues are favored. Of the Italian milan yellow shades, running from cream to deep maize, are most popular.

There is a tendency to greater width of brim and height of crown in recently launched shapes, but this has not been persevered in, excepting in the height of the crown.

Plumage is by no means set on one side. Many of the aigrets used are very tall and straight.

Paris says a great many of the tall fancies are made up of ostrich. Two small tips, surmounting a rod covered with the fiber wrapped around it, is most favored form. Burnt ostrich, made into high quill effect, is popular.

Another new idea in Paris is a trimming of true lovers' knots, for which one inch wide velvet ribbon is used.

The new sensation in Paris is a satin ribbon, having much the appearance of tolle cre or stove polish ribbon, but in reality being a new species of thick satin, which stays in place without support.

Flowers are being given a prominent place in Paris, those closely copied from nature finding most favor, lilacs especially being used, together with leaves in glossy bronze green shades.

In Vanity Fair.

Collars and cuffs of figured linen appear on suits of serge and poplin.

Bodices are extremely simple in line, while skirts grow more elaborate.

The feather pompon is an important feature in the millinery this spring.

Make your waists full at the back and front if you would be in fashion.

The cameo buckle is made in special size and design for shoes and slippers.

This season the bolero costume is favored above all others for the sunny spring days.

The newest collars seem to stand away from the neck in a loose, unfitted manner.

Net scarfs are embroidered in all sorts of fanciful designs with silver or colored beads.

MONEY AND A MAID

And a Financial Deal That Had a Curious Climax.

AN EXPERIMENT IN SAVING.

It Looked as Though the Plan Proposed by Papa Was Doomed to Failure, but the Little Lassie Had a Big Surprise For Her Fond Parent.

It is not necessary to mention her name, but it is of interest to note that she is the daughter of one of "the first families of Virginia," and one characteristic of these same first families is apt to be an utter carelessness of that which pays for your daily bread and mine and which keeps us all out of the poorhouse—money.

She was just rising eleven, this little maid, two years ago when her father first noted her lack of interest in things financial. Starting as a barefoot boy because of the prodigality of his progenitors, he had drifted north, worked for a scant living at whatever he could get to do, developed an ability, studied, worked and climbed until at last he found himself a success and was able to spend about $10,000 a year for the maintenance of himself and the wife and child he had accumulated. Then said the wise papa to himself, remembering his days of poverty and stress, "I must teach her to save."

He tried several plans, all of which failed to have any good effect. Just a year ago he hit upon a scheme which seemed to have merit.

"Here, Boots," he said, "I want to make a proposition to you. This is what I propose: I will give you a brand new dollar bill every Saturday night, and I will write the date upon each one. At the end of the year I want you to show me how many of those actual dollar bills you have, and for every one you can show me I will give you two. Do you think you can make money that way?"

The child thought she could and repeated the conditions as well as her mind grasped them, but her father thought she did not get them accurately.

"Wait," he said; "I'll write it out so that there cannot be any error."

So he wrote:

"I will give you a new one dollar bill every Saturday night. I will write the date on each one as I give it to you. For every such bill that you can show me at the end of the year I will give you two others." Then he signed it.

There was a dearth of childish funds for awhile in that household and not a few efforts on the part of the daughter to extort money from her mother, who was wise and refused accommodation. But some way, it did not then transpire how the little girl dug herself out of penury and into comparative affluence and that without meaning to exercise guile. She seemed to have money in her purse and was quite able to hold up her end at the soda fountain or wherever else her little friends gathered, and her parents, who said nothing at all about it to her, wondered and speculated, finally agreeing that Boots was spending at least a large part of her allowance.

The dollar bill came every week, duly inscribed with the date of the gift, and was accepted by the little maiden with appropriate thanks. Then came the Christmas holidays, and the parents wondered if she would save her money or remember them. She remembered them, but not with much expenditure. Then came the last of the fiscal year, and the father inscribed another note and turned it over to her.

"Now, Boots," he said, "I have given you fifty-two of these, and I promised you two for every one you could show me at the end of the year. How many have you?"

"I'll get them for you," said the innocent child and ran away.

The old folks had a laugh between themselves while she was gone, thinking that she would exhibit two or three bills and fully believing that the experiment had failed. Then in came the daughter. She laid a sheaf of bills down before her father.

He counted them—fifty-two! All unused and bearing his indorsement of the date of gift. Among them was the agreement written by her father.

"Now, how much do you owe me?" she asked.

"I reckon I owe you $104," he said, "but I cannot see how you managed to save every one of these bills and yet had all the money you have spent."

"Well, pop," she answered, "it's this way. I told Joe one time that I couldn't spend any money, although I had it, and he asked me why. I told him and showed him what you had written. Then he made me what you call a proposition."

"He has an allowance of $2 a week. He said he would give me 70 cents a week if I would keep all the bills and give them to him at the end of the year after showing them to you. It's a perfectly fair agreement. I have had my 70 cents a week, I show the bills, you give me $104 and I turn over to him the $52. He makes $15.60, and I make $104. And I don't have to be poor or broke."

Now, what would you do with a child like that?—Detroit Free Press.

Let those who would affect singularity with success first determine to be very virtuous, and they will be sure to be very singular.—Walter Colton.

Strength of Eggshells.

Most people are aware of the power of eggshells to resist external pressure on the inside, but not many would credit the results of tests recently made, which appear to be genuine. Eight ordinary hen's eggs were submitted to pressure applied externally all over the surface of the shell, and the breaking pressure varied between 400 pounds and 675 pounds per square inch. With the stresses applied internally to twelve eggs these gave way at pressures varying between 32 pounds and 65 pounds per square inch. The pressure required to crush the egg varied between 40 pounds and 75 pounds. The average thickness of the shells was 12-1000 inch.—London Globe.

The Glove on the Pole.

A quaint custom in an English town, Honiton, is "proclaiming the fair." The town obtained the grant of a fair from the lord of the manor so long ago as 1257, and the fair still retains some of the picturesque characteristics of bygone days. The town crier, dressed in picturesque uniform and carrying a pole decorated with gay flowers and surmounted by a large gilt model of a gloved hand, publicly announces the opening of the fair, as follows: "Oyez! Oyez! Oyez! The fair's begun, the glove is up. No man can be arrested till the glove is taken down." Hot coins are then thrown among the children. The pole and glove remain displayed until the end of the fair.

Being a Good Boxer.

In a story in the American Magazine by Elmer E. Ferris one of the characters comments as follows on the advantages of learning how to box: "The good of it lies right here. It increases a man's self confidence, and that protects him from trouble. Haven't you ever noticed among dogs that when a dog is a scrapper the other dogs leave him alone, but if he is afraid they pitch into him? Men are something like that. Another thing: Boxing increases a man's aggressive spirit, although if he is anything of a gentleman it doesn't make him quarrelsome. Then, too, it is better than any other exercise in taking the fear of physical injury out of a man."

How can I understand your father's death? I don't know. She—You must understand a word of it. He—And what of that? She—Certain. He—It just to torment me. —City News

Carlyle and O'Brien.

They are married and his wife were so very much loved that it is hard to think of her going to a better world. She was a very kind and gentle woman and her death is a great loss to the family. Carlyle is now in the city and is very much distressed. He is now in the city and is very much distressed. He is now in the city and is very much distressed.

Isle of Man's Busy Governor.

For plurality in office the palm must go to the governor of the Isle of Man. According to Spencer Walpole's account of the "Isle of Man Rule" the governor is a barrister, president of the common law courts, president of the council, president of the Tyndal court and in addition, as his own prime minister, home secretary and head of the treasury.—London Chronicle

Have You the Right to Ask?
Young man, are you so situated financially that you have a right to ask a girl to become your wife?
Is it fair to her or to yourself to ask her to help bear the burden of poverty?
No fortune is necessary for a proper start in married life, but can you show her that you have formed the habit of saving? Have you a savings account?
The young man who puts some part of his savings in this strong bank each month is the safe young man. It is the strongest recommendation to her father, both as a father and business man.
When you are ready to ask some girl to share your fortune, be prepared to show that you do not mean "misfortune."
Let us keep your savings in our bank. Open the account at once and add to it with every penny you possibly can spare. One dollar starts an account.
Lay the foundation and we'll help you build the balance by paying you three per cent on your savings. All business confidential.
